Birds are singing round my window, Tunes the sweetest ever heard, And I hang my cage there daily, But I never catch a bird. So with thoughts my brain is peopled, And they sing there all day long; But they will not fold their pinions In the little cage of song! Richard Henry Stoddard. A DEDICATION. The sea gives her shells to the shingle, The earth gives her streams to the sea; They are many, but my gift is single--My verses, the first-fruits of me. Let the wind take the green and the gray leaf, Cast forth without fruit upon air--Take rose-leaf and vine-leaf and bay-leaf, Blown loose from the hair. The night shakes them round me in legions, Dawn drives them before her like dreams; Time sheds them like snows on strange regions, Swept shoreward on infinite streams: A DEDICATION. 707 Leaves pallid and sombre and ruddy, Dead fruits of the fugitive years--Some stained as with wine and made bloody, And some as with tears; Some scattered in seven years traces, As they fell from the boy that was then--Long left among idle green places, Or gathered but now among men: On seas full of wonder and peril, Blown white round the capes of the north; Or in islands where myrtles are sterile, And loves bring not forth. O daughters of dreams, and of stories That life is not wearied of yet, Faustine, Fragoletta, Dolores, Felise and Yolande and Juliette I Shall I...
